

Curriculum vitae of Lucien Cheng-hsia Lin

Lucien C.H. Lin, the frequently used internet ID is “Lucien” or “lucien.cc”. His education background is mainly in the field of technology laws, but he also has many interests and is inclined to learn new and creative things. In 2005, he stepped in the study area of “Free and Open Source Software (FOSS)” licenses and became an academia research member of the “Open Source Software Foundry (OSSF)” project. Since then, he is in charge of the analysis and interpretation of FOSS licenses, the record and track of FOSS business trends and models. He served as the project manager of OSSF project since 2008, and the OSSF newsletter chief editor since 2010. After retiring both of the positions in 2011 and shifting his role in OSSF as a management advisor, he devotes himself to the writing of “Understanding Free and Open Source Software Licensing as Business Intelligence”. Sincerely he hopes to help Taiwan people get a better and useful understanding of FOSS licensing by the publishing of this book.
